Executive furniture

Refined and sophisticated

Times Square is a stunning collection featuring 80 mm thick desktops covered in a veneer of European oak stained to give a natural oak or dark oak finish. With its arched leg design, the range has a refined and timeless quality, the wood being carefully chosen to ensure that the line of the grain follows the line of the arch itself. The generously proportioned desktop and legs, each of which boast a thickness of 80 mm, convey a reassuring sense of strength and reliability.

The wood, the glass of the modesty panel and the beige lacquered finish of the complementary units combine beautifully to create a unique overall effect of harmony and style.

The understated elegance of fine cabinetwork

The generously proportioned desktop and legs convey a reassuring sense of strength and reliability. The refined and unpretentious desktop and panel legs combine to form a straight-sided arch, giving the range a timeless quality that will never fade. The regular pattern of the wood grain, the glass and the beige lacquered finish of the complementary units combine superbly to create an effect of harmony and style. The finishing touch to the Times Square collection is provided by an eye-catching bookcase, comprising shelves at the top and drawers at the bottom.

Perfect harmony and a unique style

Elegantly arched leg design

An executive office with flair and imagination

The “return wall” can be fitted, according to preference, with a filing unit, a computer shelf, a pen tray or a CPU holder. All in all, a highly desirable and extremely useful piece of furniture.

The 4 door cabinet has many strings to its bow. It can be used as a return or as a storage cupboard, with doors in wood or glass. Alternatively, without doors, it can be used as a handy side table.

Being a natural product, wood veneers may appear to vary in colouring and pattern, particularly when viewed at different angles to the grain and at different angles to the light.
